Purpose for Developing Peer Groups

Neb. Rev. Stat. § 85-1413(5)(g) requires that Nebraska's Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education establish peer groups for public institutions in Nebraska. The Comprehensive Statewide Plan for Postsecondary Education further defines the Commission's purpose for establishing peer groups for Nebraska public colleges and universities as follows:

Peer Groups

A peer institution is one that is representative of the institution to which it is compared. The Commission is required by statute to identify peer institutions for each public postsecondary education institution in the state. The Commission reviews and compares several characteristics of institutions, such as (size) and program offerings, in identifying peers. Peer groups are used for budget and program review, as well as for other comparisons that will aid in Commission-decision making. The Commission's purpose for the use of peer groups does not include influencing the collective bargaining process.

New peer groups for Nebraska's Community Colleges and State Colleges were approved by the Commission in 2014. Selection of peer groups for the four University of Nebraska campuses was last conducted in 1993. Since institutions can change over time, the Commission deems it necessary to develop updated peer groups for each University of Nebraska campus. The Commission will also attempt to develop a peer group for the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture. The peer groups will be used by the Commission during program reviews, budget recommendations, tuition and fees comparisons, and facility analyses.

For the Commission's purposes, peer institutions are defined as institutions sufficiently similar in mission, programs, size, students, wealth, etc., and are used to establish basic central tendencies. Aspirational institutions in some ways excel the target institution, which would like to emulate the aspirational institutions' accomplishments and set similar goals.¹ Commission peers will not include aspirational institutions.

The following report details the process by which the Coordinating Commission selected its peer institutions for the University of Nebraska at Kearney (UNK).

Evaluation Process

Data Sources

Unless noted otherwise, data collected by the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS) in 2013-2014 (for the 2012-2013 academic year and fall 2013 semester) served as the primary source of data during the Commission's evaluation process. To obtain a more accurate snapshot of the program offerings at each institution, the Commission aggregated two-digit Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) codes into seven discipline clusters and analyzed the average number of completions within each category, as well as each award level over three academic years (2010-2011, 2011-2012, and 2012-2013). See Appendix A for a description of each CIP aggregation.

Initial Cohort

The Commission identified the following fundamental criteria to develop an initial list of 705 potential peer candidates:

- Reported to IPEDS in 2013-14 (number of institutions remaining: 7,764)
- Within United States (7,595)
- Under public control (2,011)
- Classified as "Public, 4-year or above" in IPEDS (706)
- Removal of UNK from cohort (705)

Threshold Approach: Phase I

Focusing on variables reflecting UNK's essential institutional characteristics, the Commission adopted a threshold approach to reduce the number of potential peer candidates. Those institutions not matching on identified important categorical criteria or falling outside Commission-established parameters for numeric variables were withdrawn, at least temporarily, from consideration.

Outcome variables such as graduation rates and retention rates were not included in the Commission's analysis. Focusing instead on criteria affecting these outcomes, the Commission began screening institutions using the following 10 variables:

Open admission policy

UNK: No

CCPE criteria: No

Number of institutions remaining: 532

An institution's degree of selectivity and rigor of admission requirements influence the type of students who enroll, often serving as strong predictors of retention and graduation rates. As schools with open admission policies accept any student who applies, these institutions are more likely to experience diminished achievement rates. UNK does not have an open admission policy, instead requiring both core high school course completions and performance requirements such as high school class rankings or standardized test scores.

Land-grant institution status

UNK: Not a land-grant institution

CCPE criteria: Not a land-grant institution

Number of institutions remaining: 466

Traditional land-grant institutions consist primarily of a group of large public research universities sharing a unique history, agricultural research and extension mission, and source of federal funding, making them fundamentally distinct from non-land-grant institutions such as UNK.

Carnegie Classification 2010 Basic

UNK: Master's Colleges and Universities (larger programs)

CCPE criteria: Master's Colleges and Universities (smaller, medium, or larger programs)

Number of institutions remaining: 237

The Carnegie Foundation's classification system helps identify institutions with similar program offerings, sizes, and academic missions. Its 2010 basic classification defines Master's Colleges and Universities, such as UNK, as institutions awarding more than 50 master's degrees but fewer than 20 doctorates.

Percentage of total degrees granted: doctor's degrees (three-year average)

UNK: 0%

CCPE criteria: <1%

Number of institutions remaining: 211

Doctoral programs typically cost an institution more to offer than non-terminal degrees. According to statute, UNK does not currently have the authority to offer such degrees.

Degree of urbanization (Urban-centric locale)

UNK: Town: Remote

CCPE criteria: not Suburb, City: Large, or City: Midsize

Number of institutions remaining: 113

Based on a school's physical address and proximity to urban areas, the urban-centric locale codes found in IPEDS utilize a methodology developed by the U.S. Census Bureau's Population Division in 2005. For a regional university such as UNK, an institution's surrounding area has a tremendous influence on its current and potential enrollment.

Fall enrollment

UNK: 7,052

CCPE criteria: 4,000 - 16,000

Number of institutions remaining: 90

An institution's enrollment size invariably affects countless important institutional characteristics, including facility usage, tuition income, student-to-faculty ratios, and program offerings.

Percentage of 12-month enrollment: minorities

UNK: 10.4%

CCPE criteria: <=25%

Number of institutions remaining: 65

Because of a higher incidence of poverty, lower parental educational attainment, and greater likelihood of attending low-performing K-12 schools, many minority students require additional academic, financial, and social supports to be successful in postsecondary education compared to white students. Only a small portion of undergraduate students attending UNK is from minority racial or ethnic groups (10.4% during the 2012-2013 academic year).

Percentage of fall undergraduate enrollment: age 25 and over

UNK: 10.4%

CCPE criteria: <=25%

Number of institutions remaining: 58

Percentage of fall undergraduate enrollment: part-time

UNK: 13.2%

CCPE criteria: <=25%

Number of institutions remaining: 52

Part-time undergraduate students, especially those age 25 and over, tend to take longer to graduate and often have lower graduation rates. UNK, with the majority of its undergraduate enrollment full-time and under the age of 25, is more traditional.

Percentage of fall graduate enrollment: part-time

UNK: 83.4%

CCPE criteria: >49%

Number of institutions remaining: 43

Age and enrollment status similarly affect time to completion and graduation rates at the graduate level. While UNK's undergraduate enrollment is primarily traditional, its graduate student body is more non-traditional, consisting primarily of part-time students over the age of 25.

Adding Institutions to Cohort

By the conclusion of the first phase of the threshold approach, the Commission had narrowed the number of potential peer candidates to 43 institutions. Although each institution removed during the process was initially eliminated because it did not match a particular Commission-identified criterion, it may have been dissimilar on several additional variables. Conversely, there were 53 institutions excluded from consideration that failed to match on only a single criterion. In reevaluating these institutions, the Commission added 27 institutions to its existing list of 43 institutions. These included institutions not matching UNK on its Carnegie Classification or IPEDS' urban locale variables as well as those judged by the Commission as falling just outside Commission-established numeric ranges on the other variables.

Table 1: Threshold Approach: Phase I Summary

Variable	Criteria	Remaining N

2. Land-grant institution status	Not a land-grant institution	466
3. Carnegie Classification 2010 Basic	Master's Colleges and Universities	237
4. Percentage of total degrees granted: doctor's degrees (three-year average)	<1%	211
5. Degree of urbanization (Urban-centric locale)	Not Suburb, City: Large, or City: Midsize	113
6. Fall enrollment	4,000 - 16,000	90
7. Percentage of 12-month enrollment: minorities	<=25%	65
8. Percentage of fall undergraduate enrollment: age 25 and over	<=25%	58
9. Percentage of fall undergraduate enrollment: part-time	<=25%	52
10. Percentage of fall graduate enrollment: part-time	>49%	43
11. Reinstated institutions		+27
TOTAL		70

Throughout the process, the Commission paid particular attention to the peers chosen for UNK by the University. The following University-selected peers were removed during the first phase of the threshold approach. For a complete list detailing where each institution did or did not match Commission-established criteria or criteria ranges, see Appendix C.

Table 2: University-Selected Peers Removed from Consideration during Threshold Approach
Institution	Disqualifying characteristics:
University of Central Arkansas	1. Percentage of total degrees granted: doctor's degrees (three-year average) = 2.1% (UNK = 0.0%)
University of Northern Colorado	1. Carnegie Classification 2010 Basic = Doctor's degree - research/scholarship 2. Percentage of total degrees granted: doctor's degrees (three-year average) = 2.8% (UNK = 0.0%)
Sam Houston State University	1. Carnegie Classification 2010 Basic = Doctor's degree - research/scholarship 2. Percentage of total degrees granted: doctor's degrees (three-year average) = 1.2% (UNK = 0.0%) 3. Fall Enrollment = 19,210 (UNK = 7,052) 4. Percentage of 12-month enrollment: minorities = 36.5% (UNK = 10.4%)

Threshold Approach: Phase II

After reducing the number of potential peer candidates for UNK from an initial cohort of 705 institutions to 70, the Commission conducted the second phase of its threshold approach, examining new variables and, in some cases, narrowing numeric ranges previously established during the first phase. For a complete list detailing where each institution did or did not match Commission-established criteria or criteria ranges during the second phase, see Appendix D.

Percentage of undergraduate degrees granted within STEM field (three-year average)

UNK: 7.7%

CCPE criteria: <30%

Number of institutions remaining: 66

Along with health-related degrees, STEM degrees are among the most expensive for an institution to offer and produce, due in large part to necessary lab work and equipment expenses. Only a small portion of undergraduate degrees granted at UNK is within the STEM field (7.7% three-year average).

2010 county population²

UNK: 48 per square mile

CCPE criteria: <500 per square mile

Number of institutions remaining: 51

Similar to its use of IPEDS' degree of urbanization variable during the first phase of the threshold approach, the Commission used county population data from the United States Census Bureau to ensure further that UNK's potential peers are situated in locales with comparable urbanization, population densities, and demographics.

Fall enrollment

UNK: 7,052

CCPE criteria: 5,000 – 13,000

Number of institutions remaining: 43

The Commission narrowed the accepted fall enrollment range established during the first phase from 4,000-16,000 to 5,000-13,000.

Undergraduate program mix similarity score

UNK: 0.0

CCPE criteria: <7.0

Number of institutions remaining: 40

Graduate program mix similarity score

UNK: 0.0

CCPE criteria: <25.0

Number of institutions remaining: 31

Comparable degree offerings demonstrate similar institutional missions and program costs. To aid in its evaluation, the Commission developed a calculation for measuring undergraduate and graduate program mix similarities. For each of the seven CIP clusters, the Commission squared the difference between UNK's percentage of degrees granted and each institution's percentage. The Commission then summed the squares, with the institution possessing the lowest resulting score representing the closest match to UNK's program mix. For a more detailed explanation, see Appendix B.

ACT/SAT converted 25th percentile score³

UNK: 20

CCPE criteria: 18 - 22

Number of institutions remaining: 26

² Downloaded from United States Census Bureau website:

http://quickfacts.census.gov/qfd/download_data.html

³ Scores converted using concordance table published on ACT's website:

<http://www.act.org/solutions/college-career-readiness/compare-act-sat/>

Similar standardized test scores help ensure entering students have similar academic preparation at the secondary level and are of comparable academic potential.

Percentage of first-time freshmen receiving Pell Grants

UNK: 35%

CCPE criteria: 25%-45%

Number of institutions remaining: 25

The percentage of first-time freshmen receiving Pell Grants - awarded primarily to undergraduate students with family incomes of less than $20,000 – serves as an indicator of the proportion of low-income students enrolled at a particular institution. Such students historically matriculate and graduate at lower rates as well as take more time to complete degrees. Thirty-five percent of first-time freshmen at UNK received Pell Grants during the 2012-2013 academic year.

Percentage of fall enrollment: non-state residents

UNK: 7.9%

CCPE criteria: <50%

Number of institutions remaining: 23

In addition to signifying a potential extended regional or national recruiting footprint, a large proportion of non-state residents can boost an institution’s resources through income from comparatively higher out-of-state tuition rates. Only a small portion of UNK’s fall enrollment (7.9%) consists of non-state residents.

Percentage of instructional staff: full-time

UNK: 72.2%

CCPE criteria: >58%

Number of institutions remaining: 20

Compared with their full-time peers, part-time faculty are more likely to be less qualified (professionally and academically), earn less, and spend less time on responsibilities outside of the classroom such as holding office hours and preparing for class. These factors often culminate in lower graduation rates at institutions employing significant numbers of part-time faculty. The majority of instructional faculty at UNK is full-time (72.2% during the 2012-2013 academic year).

Table 3: Threshold Approach: Phase II Summary

Variable	Criteria	Remaining N
1. Percentage of undergraduate degrees granted within STEM field (three-year average)	<30%	66
2. County population	<500 per square mile	51

3. Fall enrollment	5,000 – 13,000	43
4. Undergraduate program mix similarity score	<7.0	40
5. Graduate program mix similarity score	<25.0	31
6. ACT/SAT converted 25 th percentile score	18 – 22	26
7. Percentage of first-time freshmen receiving Pell Grants	25% - 45%	25
8. Percentage of fall enrollment: non-state residents	<50%	23
9. Percentage of instructional staff: full-time	>58%	20

Individual Institution Analyses

Having reduced the number of potential peer candidates to 20 institutions, the Commission replaced the threshold approach with a more individualized assessment, examining and comparing the attributes of each remaining institution with UNK one by one to find the most suitable peers.

The Commission first reduced the number of remaining peer candidates from 20 to 18 final institutions (10 peers, two alternates, six replacements) later sent to the University for its review. The two institutions detailed in Table 4 were removed before the Commission proceeded to evaluate the final 18 institutions.

*Designated as a peer of UNK by the University of Nebraska

After a series of internal meetings involving considerable discussion and deliberation, the Commission selected the following 10 institutions as proposed peers for UNK:

Table 5: Proposed Peers

Eastern Illinois University	Charleston	Illinois
Emporia State University	Emporia	Kansas

Additionally, the Commission proposed the two institutions below to serve as UNK’s alternates, potentially replacing one of the above peers should it evolve to become substantially dissimilar from UNK in the future.

The Commission also offered the following six institutions for potential replacement of the above peers and/or alternates. Although these institutions were not removed during the threshold approach, the Commission, for a number of reasons, considered these institutions more dissimilar from UNK in comparison to the proposed peers and alternates.

Institutional Feedback

After selecting its proposed peers, alternates, and potential replacements for UNK, the Commission sent its report to the University of Nebraska for its review. If the University of Nebraska had concerns with the peers or alternates selected by the Commission, it had the opportunity to make recommendations, contingent on sufficient rationale, for modifications by substituting of one or more of the proposed peers or alternates with one or more of the alternates, potential replacement institutions, and/or institutions not originally included on the proposed list of 18 institutions.

The Commission's process was well received, with the University having only a few recommendations for adjustments. Citing the institution's sizeable enrollment, dissimilar mission, and larger staff size, the University suggested removing the University of Northern Iowa as a peer. The University also proposed discarding Southeast Missouri State University to reduce the number of institutions from Missouri (the Commission's peer group proposal had two other institutions from the state). In these institutions' places, the University recommended inserting two of the Commission's potential replacements – Winona State University and either Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania or Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania. After consideration, the Commission ultimately found the University's suggestions agreeable and decided to supplant the University of Northern Iowa and Southeast Missouri State University with Winona State University and Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania.

The University also proposed selecting two other institutions to serve as alternates in place of Murray State University and SUNY Oswego due to various institutional dissimilarities. Still considering the University of Northern Iowa and Southeast Missouri State University to be sufficiently similar to UNK in a number of important characteristics, particularly compared with the pool of remaining replacement institutions, the Commission inserted these two institutions as alternates.

Suitability Over Time

The Commission has implemented a five-year evaluation process to ensure the peer group for UNK remains suitable over time. In 2020, the Commission will verify the suitability of the peer groups and make modifications if warranted. Prior to any changes, the Commission will distribute the modified list to the University for its review and recommendations. Additionally, if the University identifies a peer that is no longer viable, it may contact the Commission to ask for a review of the peer group. If the University or Commission identifies no changes, the peer groups will remain valid until 2025, when the Commission will generate new peer groups for the University of Nebraska.
